SCRAP STARTS
IN BIG RACE

Ten Riders Leave Track and Refuse to Ride.

CROOKED RIDING IS ALLEGED

ROUGH HOUSE RESULTS AND PO-LICE ARE CALLED.

New York, Dec. 7.—Angry because they believed the race was being unfairly conducted, and because methods which they alleged to be wrong allowed other riders to gain a lap upon them, five teams in the six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden, including some of the best riders competing in the event, quit the race.

The five teams that quit were Walthour and Munroe, Redell and Redell, Mayo and Newkirk, McLean and Bowler, and Butler and Doran. All of them were among the best in the contest and among those most heavily backed to win the highest prize.

The trouble was precipitated by the most exciting piece of riding in the race thus far given, when Root and Rorion, followed later by Stoll and Vanderstuyt, succeeded in gaining a lap on their opponents. Walthour, who acted as spokesman for the five dissatisfied teams, declared that the members of those teams relieved each other at intervals not allowed by the rules, especially in the case of Stoll and Vanderstuyt. The trouble began shortly after 2 o'clock.

Doran Sets a Merry Clip.

For two miles Doran kept up a heart-breaking sprint and gained half a lap on the bunch. Then, having lost a second, Root jumped in and began a sprint even more heart-breaking than Doran's had been. He kept it up for forty minutes, with the other riders trying desperately to overtake him, but that at the end of the time he had gained the lap he and his partner covered.

Walthour was on the track throughout the sprint and riding a little ahead of the rest. When Root and Doran made their terrific dash half a lap ahead of the rest, little Stoll, the Belgian rider, who had just relieved Vanderstuyt, made a dash for Walthour and began a sprint to catch Root. In twelve laps he had done what he had tried for, and Walthour had been too much taken by surprise to catch him.

Then the five dissatisfied teams named, who were not then on the track, made their complaint and declared their intention of leaving the race. The five teams then riding left the track, and all ten riders immediately surrounded the officials and demanded that the race be suspended.

Walthour, as spokesman for the dissatisfied riders, declared that Stoll had not properly relieved Vanderstuyt and that the lap was gained upon him.

P. T. Powers, promoter of the race, told Walthour and the others that they had no right to leave the race, as they had done, either by the National Cycling association rules or the special contracts which they made with the management.

He concluded: "You can go back on the track or not. Take your choice."

N. C. A. Takes a Hand.

After a conference between President Batchelder of the National Cycling association and R. S. Kelsey, chairman of the board of control of the association, Walthour and the nine other riders who withdrew from the race were indefinitely suspended. The cases will not be discussed until the regular annual meeting of the association in February. Until that time they cannot ride on any track in the United States.

Chairman Kelsey, in speaking of the men, said: "I intend to make an excuse of these fellows. He could say nothing further."

At 8 a. m. the standing of the twelve teams remaining in the race was as follows: Vanderstuyt-Stoll, Root-Dorion, 1,257; each, and the other teams, 1,258; each. Kelsey, chairman of the board, said that the race would be resumed at 10 o'clock.

Walthour Makes Statement.

Some time later Walthour and McLean returned and had a talk with Powers. Walthour afterward said he asked Powers for $500, which he considered to be due him for the money he had lost on Saturday night and his work so far this week, and that Powers had referred him to an attorney.

McLean said he "was in the same boat." He added that he had engaged a lawyer, whom he had instructed to attack the race receipts at once.

Walthour, an spokesman for the suspended riders, gave out their version of the trouble resulting in their withdrawal. He said:

"Root and Doran gained their lap honestly. I have no ground for complaint against them, and none of us has. It is entirely against the unjust actions of Stoll and Vanderstuyt that we are fighting. It is a matter of fact that we were a lap behind us instead of an ahead. It was this way. When Doran and Root had gained their lap, both Stoll and Vanderstuyt were on the track making changes. I carried the bunch all of the time except three. These three were the Redell brothers, Butler and Doran, and Root. We rode along after them slowly, knowing that we had lapped the others, and when we saw our mistake, when the score was posted to find Stoll and Vanderstuyt posted a lap ahead. Then came our protest, and you know the result."

It pays to be particular in Teas. Utah people are particular. They always drink Tree Tea.
